Overview

BIOGRAPHY

Kiara Robles, an attorney in the Los Angeles office of Foley Mansfield, practices in the areas of Toxic/mass tort, product liability, and employment law. Kiara has experience throughout all aspects of the civil litigation process, including evaluation and development of case strategy, drafting of pleadings and motions, legal research, law and motion practice, discovery and depositions, hearings and oral arguments, mediations, settlement negotiations, and trial preparation.

Kiara has defended national retailers, product manufacturers, individual business owners, and commercial and residential property owners against claims involving breach of contract, personal injury, and death. She has also represented small business and consumers in major civil antitrust class action lawsuits.

Prior to practice, Kiara served as a legal liaison for a sales engagement platform startup and was a Judicial Extern to the Honorable Fred J. Fujioka of the Los Angeles Superior Court of California. She also served as a law clerk for various law firms practicing whistle blower law, employment law, and personal injury.
